COURT OF APPEALS

A Number of Important Decisions Handed Down Yesterday.

The President is the Only Hope for Jomes Travers-Lower Courts

Sustained.

Late yesterday afternoon after the Cour of Appeals had adjourned for the day, number of opinions were filed in case argued before the court several weeks ago In the case of James L. Travers, convicted last March of the murder of Lena Gross near Brightwood last November, the judg ment of the lower court was sustained The principal contention of the condemned man was that his confession was wrung from him by threats and other induce ments. The appellate court, however, found that the defendant had been given the benefit of every possible doubt, and that there were no errors committed by the trial judge of which he could justly complain. Travers, a young colored man, was sen-tenced by Judge Cole to be hanged on the 10th of next month, and his only hope now is with the President.

of Richard H. Fletcher In the case of against the Baltim In the case of Richard H. Fletcher against the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad Company, the judgment of the lower court was also sustained. Fletcher was employed by the company and was injured by being struck by a piece of timber thrown from a train. He sued the company, claiming $10,000 damages, but in the court below Judge Bradley directed a verdict for the defendent.

The judgment of the lower court was also affirmed in the case of the Walter T. Proment Company, brought to recover a judg-ment creditor's bill for $1,159. The defendent company contended that their real es tate had been conveyed to the corporation and that the property was, therefore, exempt from attachment. In the court below Judge Cox decided otherwise, and in that opinion he was sustained by the appellate

In the case of Alice Boswell against the District, in which she was awarded dam-ages because of injuries sustained by her ages because of injuries sustained by her in falling over a projecting gas box in the sidewalk, the judgment below was affirmed, holding that the District in not removing or having removed the obstruction thereby became responsible.

In the controversy over the estate of the late Alien McLane, in which a ruling of Judge Cox was questioned on the ground that his temporary assignment to the

that his temporary assignment to the Probate Court was illegal without a revo-Probate Court was illegal without a revo-cation of the regular assignment by the Court in General Term, the temporary as-signment was held by the appellate court to have been legal, and the rulings of Judge Cox were affirmed. In the case of B. H. Warner against Thos. E. Young, to collect a note for $220, the judgment of the lower court in favor of Mr. Warner was affirmed.

Mr. Warner was affirmed.

The judament of the lower court in the case of the Eastern Trust and Banking Company of Maine against William G. Johnson and others was reversed. The question at issue was whether a trust recorded in Maine instead of here was properly executed. In the court below Judge Bradley held that it was not and that the right of possession had passed from the trustee to the purchasers. The Court of Appeals holds that while the trust had not been properly executed the right of not been properly executed the right of possession did not pass from the trustee.

MEDALS PRESENTED.

Men Who Have Served Ten Years as

National Rifles.
The National Rifles held a full dress meeting at their armory last night, at which those entitled to service medals received the coveted token of their long term of enlistment. The medals were in the shape of the Iron Cross, and were for a ten-vear's service. Capt. Oyster presented them with a neat little speech, in which he expressed the hope that the company would stand by him in the effort to join the National Guard, and then presented Gen. Albert Ordway, commanding the Distriet of Columbia National Guard. Gen. Ordway said that he had always wished to see the Rifles a member of the guard, and that he was ready at all times to extend to them a most hearty welcome. It was expected that they would be mustered in last night, but something unforeseen stopped the proceeding and a merting has stopped the proceeding and a meeting has been called for Thursday night to decide the matter definitely. These who received ten-year medals were: Capt. James F. Oyster, Lieuts. J. O. Manson, G. W. Evans, W. P. Boteler, G. H. Shoulters, W. K. Ellis, T. A. Garner, G. A. Bentley, George N. Acker, E. B. Solemn Occasion.

There was a very beautiful and touching service performed last evening at the funeral of Mrs. Ayer by the ladies of the Relief Corps. After the appropriate and extended remarks by Dr. Green at the Calvary Baptist Church a goodly portion of the audience proceeded to the Congressional cemetery, where the interment was sional cemetery, where the interment was made. Arranged around the casket a ritual was read by one of the ladies, texts of Scripture on the brevity of life, and the resurrection of the dead were recited by several ladies in rotation, closing with a prayer, after which each lady deposited a flower upon the mass of flowers already on the casket lid. Their treble voices added interest and solemnity to the scene, which will long be remembered by those in attendance.

Washington Seminary.

Despite the warm weather, a large number of the friends and relatives of the pupils of the Washington Female Seminary attended the commencement exercises at the Church of Our Father last night.

The altar was profusely decorated with cut flowers and palms, and overhead à large banner, in yellow and white, the class colors, with the class motto, "Excelsior," completed the decorations. A most interesting program had been pro-vided by Miss Claudia Stuart, the principal, consisting of solos, choruses and recita-tions. Rev. John R. Elliott, S. T. D., de-livered an interesting address to the grad-uates, full of good advice. Misses Amy Bruce Tongue and Marie Stone Legare received diplomas of graduation in English.

The following young ladies took part in the exercises: Bertha P. Currie, Fannie W. Beall, Helen L. Galt, Sue H. Davis, Virginia B. Wake, Ella G. Edmonds, Lenore Paschal, May W. Elliott, M. Ellen Stuart. A minuet in costume, arranged by Miss Harrison, teacher of elocution, concluded the exercises, and was greatly enjoyed. the exercises, and was greatly enjoyed.

Stonemasons Get Their Sheds. The stonemasons who are at work on the foundations of the new buildings at Fort Myer have been suffering extremely from the heat, and on Saturday requested the contractor to provide sheds to shelter them from the sun. A refusal led to several of the masons stopping work and a threat on the masons stopping work and a threat the the part of the others to adopt a similar course if the shelter was not forthcoming this morning. The sheds were on hand when this week's work began, and the expected strike was averted.

The property has a frontage of sixty-three feet by a depth of about 131 feet, and is improved by a four-story brick building, formerly occupied by the Jefferson Club.

Grand Opera House,-Although the average temperature of the Grand Opera House is by actual measurement sixteen degrees lower than the street temperature, there was no immediate danger there last night of a frost. Still, there was a good audience in attendance, and it enjoyed the performances, more especially that of "My Wife's Mother." The first play was "Jack White's Trial," a dramatic incident in one scene presented by Mr. Shirley, Mr. Findlay, Miss Curry and Miss Johnson, and it was no ticeable, principally, in giving Mr. Findlay ticeable, principally, in giving Mr. Findlay an opportunity to appear as a young man, and he did it very well. The real fun began with the next play, "My Wife's Mother," with Mr. Bond, Mr. Abbe, Mr. Findlay, Mr. Wallace, Mr. Burke, Mrs. Findlay, Miss Curry, Miss James, Miss Johnson and Miss Blanche Walsh, in the cast. Naturally, the interest centered in Miss Walsh, who was making her first appearance in light comedy as also her first cast. Naturelly, the interest centered in Miss Walsh, who was making her first appearance in light comedy, as also her first appearance in the Bond Company. She assumed the character of Sibylla, a mystery, and notwithstanding it seemed to be a stepping downward from the more dignified characters in which she is known to Washington, her beauty, her ability and her adaptability easily made her at home in the new role and established her itness for the part. In other words, Miss Walsh has the comprehensive facility of acting, which enables her to take any character more than well. She was received with a round of applause, and she maintained herself at that standard throughout. Mr. Bond, as the victim of his wife's mother, was very good, and Mr. Abbe, as the rather tough young man and husband of Sibylla, was at his very best, and had rather the best thing in the whole performance. Mrs. Findlay, as the mother-in-law, gave a realism to the part that was almost painful to some married people in the audience. Again tonight, and a cooler night is promised by the weather worthles.

New National Theater.—The New National Theater attracted a large audience last night with "An Awful Affair" as the play, and a company whose uniform ability throughout the cast makes it impossible to pick out any one or two persons as being worthy of especial note. The play is conventional in its general structure, but it is cleverly put together, none the less, and has plenty of genuine humor in its situations as well as in its characters. The basic icea of the play is one which has been employed by every successful writer of comedy—the plunging of a man into an environment to which he is socially, intellectually or physically not adapted. This is one of the standard resources of the humorist, both in literature and the drama, and it is capable of variations so infinite that there is no danger of its palling on the popular palate. "An Awful Affair" displays literary refinement, despite the farcial tone of its title, and the company now employed at the New National Theater presented it with a snap and sparkle that kept faithful admirers who had defied the heat amused from the beginning to the end of the performance. Charles Coote was greatly liked, and Mr. Bowser made a successful first appearance with this organization. The variety of choice which the field of standard comedy offers gives it a distinct advantage over the operatic entertainments which have hither-New National Theater.-The New Nagives it a distinct advantage over the operatic entertainments which have hither operatic entertainments which have hitherto held the lion's share of the summer theater patronage. There are but few operas, and the audiences know them almost as well as the singers do—sometimes better—but the mine of comedy which the dramatic library holds has as yet been scarcely worked beyond the surface croppings. One of the greatest pleasures connected with a good production like "An Awful Affair" is that there are so many more where that came from.

More where that came from.

Kernan's Lyceum Theater.—Three shows in one is what the management of Kernan's offers its patrons this week. In the theater a lively burlesque, entitled "The White Crook," holds the interest of the audience for nearly two hours, giving away to the boxing carnival, which is still in progress. "The White Crook" is amusing, and introduces several fine specialties, There is the usual quota of pretty, shapely girls and clever comedians. In the boxing match Jack Daly and Billy, Payne fought a draw. After this the performance was match Jack Daly and Billy, Payne fought a draw. After this the performance was continued in the summer garden. The program contained Lena Le Courier, Ward and Leslie, Emma Rose Lee, Ellie Willard and Norma Brown, Josée Lore, Sanford and Lee, George Kerr and Pearl Bradbury. In the absence of Manager Kernan, Assistant Manager Meyer Fisher looks after the interests of the bouse and his abready wide terests of the house, and his already wide popularity serves him well. Tonight the boxing bout will be between Tom Caldwell

The big choruses of school children, half of whom are from the graded schools and the other half from the high schools, are rapidly attaining a high state of proficiency under the able direction of Prof. William L. Tomlins, and great things are expected of their efforts. The choruses will be assisted by Miss Maude Powell, violinist; the Apollo Quartet and Mrs. Ernest Lent, accompanist. Prof. Tomlins, who is to lead the choruses, is one of the best-known directors of children in the country. The singing of the choruses, which he will have under his direction Thursday and Friday evenings, is expected to be exceptionally fine when the material is kept in mind, and with the assistants which have been secured, there should be no reason for a concert that is not to the highest standard.

Innes' Band Concerts.—Innes' Band, which will appear at Convention Hall Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings, has a world-wide reputation. Two grand spectacles will be given, the "War and Peace" and the "Day at the World's Fair," both of which have been given with the greatest amount of success in other cit-Fair," both of which have been given with the greatest amount of success in other cities, the productions will be given with all the accessories which make everything that Innes does so complete, and no expense has been spared to make the details of the two coming productions as complete as it is possible to get them. The eight solo artists, which he has with him are said to be the best in the business at the present time. Miss Martha Garrison Miner is the leading soprano, and Mr. C. Ferguson, the tenor. Miss Louise Engel, C. Ferguson, the tenor. Miss Louise Engel, the contraito, and Mr Bowman Raiston, the basso, have been heard with success in numerous cities on the present trip.

A Testimonial Benefit.—Walter Stetson and C. Clements Davis will be tendered a testimonial benefit at McCauley's Hall on the 10th instant. Among the talent volunteered for this occasion are: Mr. Wm.
